Son of Robert and Lucy Fearnley, of 12, William Street. The family later resided at The Imperial Club, Cardigan, where Robert, as an army pensioner, was working as Club Caretaker. Frederick enlisted at Cardigan into the army, and was posted to the 1/5th Battalion, South Lancashire Regiment. The battalion was attached to 166 Brigade, 55th (West Lancashire) Division, and moved to France during January 1916, relieving the French 88th Division south of Arras. On 25 July 1916, the Division moved south and took up a place in the front line opposite the village of Guillemont, fighting through the Battle of the Somme. On 28 September 1916, the Division moved to the Railway Wood sector at Ypres, and fought at Pilckem Ridge. After suffering terrible casualties, the Division was withdrawn to Recques for re-fit and training, before moving back into the line on 15 September, and fighting at the Battle of the Menin Road. The Division moved out of the line from 22 September and fought at the Battle of Cambrai, being decimated during the German counter attack of 30 November 1917. After two months refitting, the Division moved into the front at Givenchy on 15 February 1918, were hit the following month by the German offensive on the Lys. Frederick was wounded in both legs, and was evacuated to the Base Hospital at Etaples for treatment. He died there on 29 April 1918, aged 19, and is buried at Etaples Military Cemetery, France. His parents had retired to 135, Boundary Road, St. Helens, Lancs by then.

“From Catherine Row, Cardigan to Cardiff City Hall”

John Ferrier left Catherine Row, Cardigan as a 13 year old in 1856. His father, also John, was a master mariner. John (jr.) began his Cardiff career in the offices of Messrs. George Insole and son. He migrated to the firm of Burnyeat, Brown and Co. – one of the most prosperous in the Welsh Coal Industry. He became general manager by 1873, and later managing director. Associated with the firm of Messrs. Watts, Watts and Co, (Ltd) and the United National Collieries (Ltd) they owned the Insoles-Merthyr pits and the Ynysddu collieries in the Sirhowi Valley, which together had an output of one and a half million tons of coal per annum.

J. B. Ferrier took a prominent part in Cardiff Chamber of Commerce: vice-president in 1886, 1893; president in 1894 and again vice-president in 1897. He was one of the most energetic promoters of the Cardiff Exhibition of 1896. Mr Ferrier frequently appeared before Parliamentary Committees as a witness in connection with the railways of the coalfield.

He also found time to devote his services to the Cardiff Infirmary, and was a member of the management committee for many years.

At one time he was a director of the Newport-Abercarn Steam Coal Company (Ltd) and the Stranaghan and Stephens' Stores (Ltd) but resigned these owing to the increasing calls in his own company. He was also a director of John Williams and Son (Ltd).

From 1896 he was a vice-president of the Liberal Unionist Association and was an ardent Tariff Reformer. He retired in 1910, and died in a nursing home in Llandrindod Wells. He was cremated at Liverpool crematorium.
