Benjamin was born in St. Dogmaels in 1892, raised along with his brother Thomas and sister Margaret, at 16, Castle Street, Cardigan, by their Aunt, Hannah Jones. He later moved to Caerau, Glamorgan, and enlisted at Maesteg into the 14th (Swansea City) Battalion of the Welsh Regiment, part of 114 Brigade, 38th (Welsh) Division. The Division moved to France during the end of 1915, wintering around Armentieres before moving south, where they took part in the Battle of Mametz Wood during July, 1916. They suffered terrible casualties at Mametz, and were taken out of the front line for almost a year, before being used in the Battle of Pilckem Ridge, where they regained some of the pride that the Division had unfairly lost at Mametz. The Division were in the Armentieres sector when the German Spring Offensive was launched in 1918, and it was here that Benjamin was killed in Action, during a German artillery bombardment on 2 April 1918. He is buried at Cite Bonjean Military Cemetery, Armentieres.

David was born in 1885, the son of Captain David and Annie James of St. Dogmaels. He was a long serving mariner, and prior to the war resided with his wife Annie James, at 12, Earlsfield Road, Sefton Park, London. David served aboard the White Star Liner, RMS Laurentic, which was requisitioned at the outbreak of war by the Admiralty, and converted to an Armed Merchant Cruiser. On 25 January 1917 the Laurentic was on a course to New York, carrying a cargo of 35 tonnes of Gold Bullion, when she struck a mine off Lough Swilly on the northern coast of County Donegal. She sank with the loss of 350 crew, among them was David James. He was 31 years old, and is commemorated on Panel 23 of the Plymouth Naval Memorial.

James, George Edward Private, 92110, Notts & Derby (Sherwood Foresters).

George was the son of Joseph and Mary Jane James, of 6, Feidr Fair, Cardigan. He originally enlisted at Maesteg into the Army Service Corps, and had served with them in France from 15 November 1915, but in 1918, due to a shortage of front line troops, was posted to the 16th Battalion, Sherwood Foresters, which was attached to 117 Brigade, 39th Division. During the beginning of 1918 the battalion was stationed near St. Quentin, and was one of the Divisions to be hit hard here by the German Offensive which was launched on 21 March 1918. They fought here at the Battle of St Quentin, and falling back fought at the Actions at the Somme Crossings and the Battle of Rosieres. They were moved to Flanders to rest, but April was to see the Germans launch an attack here at the Lys, and the Division fought at the First Battle of Kemmel. George was killed in action here on 25 April 1918. He was 23 years old, and is incorrectly commemorated on the Pozières Memorial, France.

James, John Able Seaman, 3721C, Royal Naval Reserve.

John was born on 19 November 1874, at St Dogmaels. John had served with the Royal Navy for several years prior to the war, but had left the Navy to return to Cardigan after marrying. He resided with his wife, Annie James, at 7, William Street, Cardigan. John was recalled to the colours at the outbreak of war, serving with the Royal Naval Reserve, aboard the SS Laurentic. Laurentic was a White Star Ocean Liner, which had been built in 1908. At the outbreak of war, Laurentic was at Montreal, and was commissioned as a troop transport for the Canadian Expeditionary Force. After conversion to armed merchant cruiser service in 1915, she struck two mines off Lough Swilly in the north of Ireland on 25 January 1917 and sank within an hour, with the loss of 364 lives. John was among the dead. He was 41 years old, and is commemorated on the Plymouth Naval Memorial, Devon.
