Arthur was born in Cardigan in 1884, the son of John Turnor Mathias and Margaret Mathias.

He worked as a clerk in Cardiff prior to the war and enlisted there into the Royal Engineers (TA) on 29 May 1915. He served in France with the 7th Indian Division Signal Company, Royal Engineers until the stress of active service took its toll on his mental health and he was hospitalised after being diagnosed as having dementia. This would today be known as shellshock, but the condition was rarely recognised at the time and Arthur was sent to an Asylum in Brecon where he died on 15 April 1919, aged 35. He is buried in Cardigan Cemetery. Arthur does not appear to be commemorated locally.

Mathias, William David Ordinary Seaman, Merchant Navy.
William was born in Cardigan in 1923. He served with the Merchant Navy aboard the S.S.
Houston City. William became ill and died of typhus at a French Hospital in Africa on 3 December 1943 aged 20. He is not commemorated by the CWGC, so nothing further is known of him.

In April 1945 Rifleman W. E. V. Vernon Mathias of No. 12/13 was liberated after five years as a prisoner of war, and took part in the notorious death march from 344 Camp, Silesia. He was home in December 1945.

Before the war Vernon Mathias (Mr Mathias, Bon Marche) worked at John Lewis, Oxford Street in London. At the beginning of WW2 he joined the Queen Victoria Rifles Regiment.
By May 1940 he was on his way to France. He saw action in and around Calais, was wounded and was captured. There followed a 5 year term of imprisonment at several camps eventually ending up in a POW camp in Poland. His detailed and honest account describes daily life in a POW, the hardships and hopes for a better future back in Cardigan.

“We moved off stumbling over the railway lines, a stinking, dirty and dishevelled mob...”
“the Red Cross food parcel was the one thing that we looked forward to...”

“Physically I lost weight in a rapid and alarming manner and the side effects were weakness, an outbreak of skin sores, loss of some teeth and worst of all, one’s weakness encouraged the infestation of body lice which practically made life unbearable”

In the camp he meets up with another Cardigan boy – Jack Griffiths!

Autumn stretches out to winter: “The river Vestula froze to a great depth...”
“The frosty nights were marvellous and I would look at the stars and imagine Nan (later his wife) also looking at the same stars...”

He is then moved to Heydebreck. 1941 ...1942... and 1943 beckons and life was hard – digging trenches while air raids were common especially throughout the summer of 1942. Then arrived a new medical officer – a Capt. James, originally from New Quay... (He died in 1981). There follows a failed attempt to escape from the camp... but leading only to (eventually three periods) of solitary confinement “ the room was roughly 6ft by 10ft...”

“1943 gradually came to a close and Christmas was here again...”
“whilst we POWs grumbled over our lot, it was as nothing compared to what the Jews suffered...”

22 January 1945 the march to freedom began, fleeing the Russian advance. After weeks of marching he eventually reached Burgermeistr, Bavaria.

“We flew home via Holland...when I arrived in Carmarthen railway station there was a taxi waiting for me. It took me the last 30 miles to Cardigan arriving in the evening where quite a few people were waiting to welcome me. My sister and my parents were waiting at the front door.”

“My journey was over” and it was time to look to the future.

Maclean, Parry Private, RMA/13461, Royal Marine Artillery.

Parry was born at Cardigan on 13 January 1895, the son of Robert and Elizabeth MacLean, of 14, William Street. The family later resided at 30, Oxford Road, Albert Road, Southsea, Portsmouth. Parry enlisted here into the Royal Marine Artillery, and was posted aboard HMS Ocean, taking part in the Gallipoli campaign, and was aboard her when she was sunk off Gallipoli. After the evacuation of Gallipoli in January 1916, Parry was posted to HMS Defence as a Gunner. Defence was a Minotaur-class armoured cruiser, which was stationed in the Mediterranean at the outbreak of war, and took part in the pursuit of the German battlecruiser SMS Goeben and light cruiser SMS Breslau. Defence was transferred to the Grand Fleet in January 1915. On 31 May 1916 the Grand Fleet fought a great battle against the German High Seas Fleet, called the Battle of Jutland. Defence was sunk on 31 May 1916 during the Battle of Jutland, when she was struck by two salvos from the Germans that detonated her rear magazine. The fire from that explosion spread to the ship's secondary magazines, which exploded in turn. The entire crew was lost in the resulting explosion. Parry was 21 years old when he died that day, and he is commemorated on the Portsmouth Naval Memorial, Hampshire.

Miles, Frank Reginald Apprentice, Mercantile Marine.

Frank was the son of Thomas Griffith Miles and Sophia Miles, of 23, William Street, Cardigan. He served with the Mercantile Marine aboard the SS Trewyn, a St. Ives registered cargo vessel. On 24 March 1916, Trewyn was on a voyage from Algiers to Middlesbrough with a cargo of iron ore, when she was sunk by the German submarine U-
 28. All 23 of her crew were lost. Frank was 20 years old, and is commemorated alongside his shipmates on the Tower Hill Memorial, London. His brother Griffith William Miles was killed at sea during WW2.

Griffith was the son of Thomas Griffith Miles and Sophia Miles, and the husband of Anne Mildred Miles, of Cardigan. He served with the Merchant Navy aboard the SS Grelhead, a London registered steamer. On 2 December 1941, Grelhead was on voyage from Spanish Morocco to Britain, when she was torpedoed by the German submarine U-562, and sank two miles off Morocco. Griffith was 56 years old when he died that day, and is commemorated on the Tower Hill Memorial, London.

Goronwy Moelwyn-Hughes was born in Priory St* on 6 October 1897 the eldest son of the Revd J. G. Moelwyn-Hughes (1866–1944) who was the minister at Tabernacle Chapel. He attended the local schools before heading for UCW Aberystwyth. During WW1 he served with the West Yorkshire regiment, was wounded , transferred to the Royal Flying Corps and served as a pilot (1917–19). He then returned to Aberystwyth, graduated as BA, entered Downing College, Cambridge where he obtained first-class honours in the law tripos. He was called to the bar in 1922. He fought two unsuccessful general elections for the Liberals in the Rhondda in Nov 1934 and Cardiganshire in 1935. He was the elected unopposed at a by-election in Carmarthen in March 1941, a seat he held until 1945. He was then returned as Labour MP for North Islington in 1950 but retired due to ill health in 1951.

He was appointed as a commissioner for inquiry on to the Burnden Park, Bolton football disaster in 1946, when 33 spectators were crushed by the pressure of numbers. He recommended that football grounds be made subject to safety licensing.

*[Llwyn Onn according to the Oxford Dictionary of National Biography, but according to 1901 Census Finch's Sq. The family were living at Glasynys, Priory St. in 1911 (census)]

He frequently returned to Cardigan to visit his parents. Here is an interesting (silent) film he made of his visit in 1933: <https://player.bfi.org.uk/free/film/watch-haf-1933-cardigan-1936-online>

John was born in Cardigan on 21 January 1878, the son of Thomas Morgan, of Quay Street.

By 1911 he was working in Cardiff Docks, and lived with his wife Maud J. Morgan at 16, Orchard Place, Canton, Cardiff. John was an Royal Naval Reservist and was recalled to the colours at the outbreak of war, joining the crew of the mothballed pre-dreadnought battleship HMS Goliath at Pembroke Dock. She was re-commissioned and took part in operations against German East Africa, participating in the blockade of the German light cruiser SMS Königsberg in the Rufiji River. From March 1915, she joined the force assembled in the Mediterranean to support the Gallipoli Campaign, and supported of the landings at Gallipoli in April. On 13 May 1915 Goliath was sunk in Morto Bay by two torpedoes from the Turkish torpedo boat destroyer Muâvenet-i Millîye, with the loss of 570 of her crew of 700. John was 37 years old when he died that day, and is commemorated on the Plymouth Naval Memorial, Devon.

Morgan, Johnnie Private, 200499, Welsh Regiment.

Johnnie was born at Cardigan, and the husband of Frances Margaret (Fanny) Morgan, of Foundry Terrace, Cardigan. He enlisted in the town into the 1/4th Battalion, Welsh Regiment, which was the local Territorial Battalion, attached to 159 Brigade, 53rd (Welsh) Division. The Division landed at Cape Helles, Gallipoli, on 9 August 1915, and was immediately thrown into action, spending the next few days in isolated pockets, fighting against a Turkish counter-attack during the Battle of Sari Bair, and then at the Attack on Scimitar Hill. The Division remained here throughout the coming months, and suffered severe losses in manpower strength during the great November 1915 blizzard on Gallipoli, when its total strength was reduced to less than that of a full-strength Brigade. On 11 December 1915 the Division was evacuated to Mudros, and by 23 December 1915 were moved to Egypt. They remained on the Suez Canal Defences for the next twelve months, where it took part in operations against the Sultan of Darfur, and in March 1917 took part in the advance into Palestine. Johnnie was killed in action during the Third Battle of Gaza, on 3 November 1917. He was 28 years old, and is buried at Beersheba War Cemetery, Israel.

Morgan, Llewellyn Able Seaman, L21/393, Royal Naval Volunteer Reserve.

Llewellyn was born on 31 July 1892, the son of John and Sophia Morgan, of Llwyn-On, Priory Street, Cardigan. He resided at the Grange, Colcot, Barry, Glamorgan prior to the war, where he worked as an electrical engineer, and enlisted on 17 February 1915 into the Public Schools Battalion, London Regiment. He transferred to Hawke Battalion, Royal Naval Division on 4 May 1915, and served at Gallipoli, before being invalided in August 1915 suffering from Enteritis. Llewellyn then rejoined Hawke Battalion, before being invalided to Britain with Nephritis on 26 December 1915. After recovering, he was sent to France with a Draft on 10 July 1916, and rejoined Hawke Battalion. Llewellyn fought at the Battle of the Ancre that year. The Royal Naval Division remained on the Ancre over the winter of 1916-17. Llewellyn was badly wounded there when a shell fragment hit him in the eye. He died of wounds in 47th Casualty Clearing Station on 6 February 1917, aged 24, and is buried at Varennes Military Cemetery, France.
