Samee, Helen, London, Samee, Ramo & Helen, juggler, Lloyd, John, curate [bapt. 1823.12.04

On 4 December 1823 John Lloyd, the curate of St Mary's Church baptised Helen, the child of Ramo and Helen Samee.

Does the name ring a bell? Ramo Samee (1791-1850), her father was a famous Indian juggler and magician.

He and his wife came over to Europe around 1810, and he made a tour of the United States in 1819. He was quite a showman:

Samee performed a trick he called "stringing beads with the mouth", in which he "swallowed" a handful of beads and a piece of string, then pulled the beads out of his mouth, one by one, tied to the string. Samee was also a sword-swallower (swallowing 2 foot long swords!) and a fire-eater. In his fire act, he would light a piece of rope, place it on a plate, and proceed to "eat" it as a meal. He called it his "light dinner".

William Hazlitt's essay The Indian Jugglers (Table Talk, 1828) provides an interesting account although Ramo is not named.

In July 1823 he performed in Swansea

He died in 1850, so poor that his wife had to advertise for financial help to bury him.

The big question, of course, is what was his connection with Cardigan? Did he live here or was the family just passing through?

In the 1881 Census return for London (West Hackney) Helen (or Ellen by then) Samee's birthplace is given as Cardigan, and the records of St Mary's Church show that she was baptised here.

She and her mother are described as Needlewomen but life was hard and they both spent periods in the Workhouse during the second half of the nineteenth century (discharged on 26 Apr 1850 and again on 2 June 1882). Ellen Samee died in 1884. If the Tivy-side had been published in 1823 I wonder what their headline would have been:

Daughter of famous Indian juggler baptised at St Mary's, perhaps. Perhaps not.

Smith, Charles Gwyn Fourth Engineer Officer, Merchant Navy.

Charles was born on 7 August 1920, the son of Sarah Smith, of 16, Pendre, Cardigan. He served with the Merchant Navy aboard the SS Empire Oil, a Middlesbrough registered tanker. On 11 September 1942, Empire Oil was on route from Swansea via Milford Haven to New York in ballast, with Convoy ON-127, when she was torpedoed by the German submarine U-659, which stopped the tanker. On 13 September 1942, tanker was sunk by the German submarine U-584. Charles was 22 years old when he was killed that day, and is commemorated on the Tower Hill Memorial, London.

- John was born at Middlesex in 1894, the son of James and Catherine Southby. He resided at Trebared, Cardigan prior to the war, and enlisted there into the 1/4th Battalion, Welsh Regiment, which was the local Territorial Battalion, attached to 159 Brigade, 53rd (Welsh) Division. The Division landed at Cape Helles, Gallipoli, on 9 August 1915, and was immediately thrown into action, spending the next few days in isolated pockets, fighting against a Turkish counter-attack during the Battle of Sari Bair, and then at the Attack on Scimitar Hill. John was wounded at Gallipoli, and was invalided home for treatment. He died in hospital on 1 February 1916, aged 21, and is buried at Netley Military Cemetery, Hampshire.

He served as a Pilot with 619 Squadron, Royal Air Force, a heavy bomber unit, equipped with the Avro Lancaster. Early in the morning of 12 September 1944, Reginald was flying Lancaster Mk.I, Serial LM209, PG-H, when it was brought down by German night-fighters, and crashed into a wood near Darmstadt airfield. The wreckage lay undiscovered until 10 May 1947, when the authorities examined a large crater and recovered the remains of the crew. Reginald was 35 years old, and is buried alongside his crew at Durnbach War Cemetery, Germany.

- Stephens, John Lawrence, SO John & Ann, labourer, 1911, 8, Mwldan, 5 [Cenotaph: lost his life 06.02.1920 whilst serving on SS Bradboyne, aged 17 years.]
 John was born in Cardigan in 1902, the son of John and Anne Stephens, of Bath House Road, Cardigan. He served with the Mercantile Marine aboard the SS Bradboyne. On 6 February 1920, the S.S. Bradboyne was caught in a strong gale in the North Atlantic, while en route from New York to Cherbourg with a cargo of wheat, and got into difficulties when her cargo shifted in the swell. The S.S. Oxonian had pulled near her after receiving a distress call, but owing to the heavy seas and the state of the Bradboyne, she could not lower her lifeboats. Some men jumped overboard and were hauled into a rescue ship, but it overturned. After a gallant attempt to rescue the beleaguered crew, six of the rescuers were themselves drowned, as well as fourteen crewmen of the Bradboyne. John was just 17 years old when he lost his life that day. He is not commemorated by the CWGC because he is not an official war casualty.
